Online Service Discussion Questions

How do we let the good news of Jesus keep us thinking of, or caring about, the needs of groups other than our own? What does grace say in this moment?

In what way can the story of the early church at Antioch help us to be creative about ways we connect with and demonstrate love to others (online, text, gifts, prayers, etc), despite the social distancing required in our current moment?

Pastor Ken talked about Psalm 139 and the refrain, "His love endures forever." What are some of the things on your timeline or the church's timeline that you, or we, could be thanking God for at this moment or using as a remembrance of the steadfast love of God?

How might our approach to this drastic disruption to cultural and social norms be a way we can love and disciple the children in our lives who are growing up in anxious and uncertain times? How might God speak to us in this moment that would ground a calm and faith-filled presence?
